SATURDAY AUGUST 8, 1874.

HEAVEN.
BY NANCY A. W. PRIEST.

Beyond these chilling winds and gloomy skies,
Beyond death's cloudy portal,
There is a land where beauty never dies,
Where love becomes immortal—

A land whose life is never numbered by shade,
Whose fields are ever verdant;
Where nothing beautiful can ever fade,
But blooms for aye enchanted.

We may not know how sweet its balmy air,
How bright and fair its flowers;
We may not hear the songs that echo there,
Through those enchanted bowers.

The city's shining towers we may not see
With our dim earthly vision;
For Death, the silent warder, keeps the key
That opes the gates elysian

But sometimes, when adown the western sky
A fiery comet lingers,
The golden gates swing inward noiselessly,
Unlocked by unseen fingers.

And while they stand a moment half ajar;
Gleams from the inner glory
Stream brightly through the azure vault: far
And half reveal the story.

O land unknown! O land of love divine!
Father all wise, eternal!
O, guide these wandering, way-worn feet of mine
Into these pastures vernal!

DICKENS'S PLATONIC AFFAIR.

A London correspondent of the Arcadian writes: "In the last American papers which have come to hand I see that Wilkie Collins's drama of 'The Frozen Deep' has been performed in Boston. You are perhaps aware that Collins has recently been engaged in turning this play into a novel. 'The Frozen Deep' awakens many sad reflections in my mind, as that piece was indirectly the means of bringing about much of Dickens's domestic unhappiness. The whole story of his separation from his wife has never yet been properly told, and in all probability never will be, as his widow is resolved to maintain the silence she has so long kept. But it is generally known that the family is dissatisfied with Foster's book. Your readers may have heard of the grand amateur performances given in 1859 at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, in aid of the Douglas Jerrold Fund. Dickens, Collins, Shirley Brooks, Mark Lemon, and many other celebrated writers took parts. The ladies characters were interpreted by professional actresses. Among these was Miss Ellen Ternan. She was then a fresh, pleasant-looking girl, not especially pretty, but possessing a good figure and an extremely agreeable manner. If ever the German poet's doctrine of elective affinities was proved to be true it was when Dickens and Miss Ternan met. It was evident to nearly all of us that the two were mutually infatuated. Dickens was constantly at her side, though his manner was carefully guarded. Mrs. Dickens was with the party, but she did not appear to notice the intimacy. Very soon after these performances Miss Ternan, at Dickens' wish, left the stage. His affection for her was said to have been purely platonic, and I have never met any one who was disposed to dispute this belief. But nevertheless it was this intimacy which was the final cause of the rupture between Dickens and his wife. For many years prior to 1859 their mutual relations had been anything but happy, although I do not think that Mrs. Dickens had previously had any well-grounded cause for jealousy. A short time after the party returned from Manchester, Mrs. Dickens went into a fashionable jeweller's at the West End, where he was in the habit of dealing, and was asked by one of the firm, who knew her well, how she liked her new bracelet. She said that she did not understand him, as she had not received any such article. The gentleman then explained that it was one Mr. Dickens had ordered for his wife, with a likeness and some hair in. This of course opened Mrs. Dickens's eyes, and a separation speedily followed. Since that time Mrs. Dickens has lived very quietly in a pretty little house near the Regent's Park, where her children, whose respect and affection she has always enjoyed, have ever been frequent visitors."

THE COLORADO POTATO BUG.—An examination of this pest by Dr. Tindall, who took them from the potato vines, show that it has ten black lines on its wing covers, five on each side. The larva is at first reddish brown, but becomes paler and brighter as it matures. The head is black, and it has a ring of black on the first segment of its body and two rows of black spots upon each side. The insect is about half an inch in length, of a thick, oval shape, and of a yellowish cream color, with the ten black lines running lengthwise down the wing covers. The head and thorax are of an orange color, spotted and marked with black. They are exceedingly rapacious, devouring the tops of round and sweet potatoes, egg plants, etc. Among the various remedies for destroying them, the following have been found effective: Paris green mixed with ten times its quantity of plaster and sprinkled on the vines; or the powder of white hellebore mixed with twice its bulk of flour or plaster, and applied with a dredging box.

SATURDAY AUGUST 8, 1874.

THE DAY.

FROM SARATOGA.

Congress Hall, Aug 7th, 1874.

It requires but a single day at this celebrated watering place and a mere call at the several hotels to convince one that the present season at Saratoga is a decided success. However the case may be at other Summer resorts, and whatever the falling off may be in the number of visitors that spend the season at the sea shore and at the mountains, it is certain that there is no declension here. The hotels, large and small, and their name is legion, are literally full from basement to attic. The college regatta had, doubtless, much to do with this state of things though it is not altogether to be credited to the amateur oarsmen whose exploits have awakened so much interest throughout the country. The fact is, Saratoga deserves to succeed. Her people do everything possible to make the place attractive, and an hour's walk about the town will convince the most skeptical that the most liberal policy has been adopted and carried out. Witness these mammoth hotels and the generous outlay on every hand. Had our own loved Newport been half so lavish she, too, would have the same degree of prosperity. The temper of the two communities may be seen in the fact that while our city by the Sea is complaining of the rate of taxation for improvements, the people of Saratoga have a rate more than three times as great and grow rich thereby.

As usual, Congress Hall, though not now the largest, is still the leading hotel of the place. Many of its rooms are occupied by the same families from year to year and there is a homelike air about the establishment that does not belong to the new and more flashy hotels. The Hon. Mr. Hathorn, the proprietor, has been at his post these many years and is universally popular. He is also a representative in Congress, but I judge it requires more ability and skill to manage a vast hotel like this than to discharge the ordinary duties of a member at Washington.

Among the guests at Congress Hall are many public men, and well-known families. Vice President Wilson is here, looking better than I had expected to see him judging from newspaper reports. He spoke quite at length in the prayer meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday, and is by no means so broken down as has been represented. Senator Morrill of Maine, Governor Buckingham of Conn., Senator Robertson of South Carolina and many others equally well known are also here. Speaker Blaine is expected in a day or two. Here also are Vanderbilt and many other moneyed magnates from all parts of the country.

The readers of the NEWS will not expect me to give an account of the display of toilettes and fashion in such a place as this. I am not competent to the task and shall not undertake it. All this is as it has been from the beginning and as it will be until the dawning of the millenium. How much of it will extend into that happy period is more than I shall undertake to say, but I trust even in that day, when the lion and the lamb shall lie down together, there will be many well dressed ladies, and many well behaved men. And then as now good taste and good judgment will lead multitudes to seek out such beautiful and enjoyable places as Newport and Saratoga where they will sit down on the piazzas in peace and enjoy surf bathing and spring water to their hearts' content.

He added: "Panurge, the rascal, declared he had forty different ways of making money, and the honestest is by petty theft. Governor Moses has not yet announced whether the corrupt granting of pardons is regarded by him as the greatest or the least of the infamies which he has practised amid the vast variety of his crimes proved and provable."

UMBRELLAS.

THE LAW ON THE SUBJECT, THE PRACTICE IN REGARD TO IT AND SOME CONJECTURES IN REGARD TO KING COFFEE'S UMBRELLA.

I well remember the witticism of Bob Audax, who once, in long-gone academic days, when old Vicars asked us the question from the text-book, "To what sort of property is mere possession a complete title?" promptly shouted "Umbrellas!" which sally set the school upon a roar, our good-natured Vicars joining. Bob, the rogue, had answered from experience; but for that matter most men, however conservative on other points, are socialists in umbrellas. The number of them that we have lost, captured, and exchanged, depends on our years and the extent of our mingling with mankind. Oddly enough, though the instruments are ancient as the race, it is only a modern and Christian trait—this communism in umbrellas. They date back at least to Jonah's booth, pitched in a rural ward of East Nineveh, or the prophet's gourd, that was made "a shadow over his head to deliver him from his grief." This gourd, to be sure, was "gobbled" as swiftly as most modern sunshades; but the ancients had no custom of umbrella stealing like ours. Fashions change in petty larceny, and the worry of the classic world was, I should say, not to keep its umbrellas, but its cloaks, from the spoiler. The habit pilfering pallia is no end of sport for the comedians, so that it really seems to tally with the umbrella practice of Christendom.

Human nature is much the same yesterday, today, and forever, whether concerning itself with pallium or parapluie. I read lately that a Detroit boy stood an umbrella, secretly fastened by a cord, in a public doorway, and observed from his hiding place that eleven persons, within an hour, successively thought the umbrella was theirs, carried it the length of the string, then dropped it and went away without looking back or stopping to pick it up again. The story is credible, even if it be in the newspaper. No rank is above this form of abstraction; majesty itself receives a foraged sunshade with a smile. In the treasure trove of the Ashantee war the valuable article was King Coffee's umbrella; there was also, to be sure, a handful of gold trinkets, but then Peking had yielded bushels of that sort of stuff, which the umbrella so far overshadowed and eclipsed that Sir Wilfred Lawson, summing up the campaign before Parliament, could say: "What have we gained by our victories? I don't know that we have anything to show for them except an old umbrella and a treaty." Now the treaty was really at that time still in the bush, so leaving the umbrella alone in hand. Our contention is that General Sir Garnet Wolseley, having come upon Coffee's sunshade in the African's palace, instinctively took it; what man seeing the stray umbrella would not? The dusky monarch may have come by the prize in the same way—in fact, the usual way. Not that Sir Garnet himself needed the tool, but he would not, as it were, fly in the face of Providence by neglecting it when put before him. Knowing that mortals chuckle over the capture of an umbrella more than over anything else of equal value, the hero sent the booty by his aide-de-camp to Queen Victoria, as "a humble tribute of dutiful respect and affection from her majesty's military and naval forces that took part in the war." The whole expedition contributed that one umbrella. This was that the Queen of England personally got out of the Ashantee war; and again I claim that carrying away other people's umbrellas has royal sanction.

If a man undertakes to keep a particular umbrella, and so call it and really consider it his own, he forthwith becomes its slave; whereas, while he follows the custom of picking up the first rain-screen at hand, he may be as light-hearted as the Israelites who in faith awaited their manna—he knows the need will bring the supply.—[Galaxy.

THE VALUE OF TRUTHFULNESS.—A man who stands in the midst of affairs, tested, tried, proved to be a man of unanswering integrity, a man of absolute truth, a man that is true, faithful, honest, honorable, is more valuable than gold, even in a commercial point of view. A man in politics who, though he may be ambitious and partisan, is shown to be faithful, honorable and trustful—even in politics such a man, in the long run, wins. One reason why there are so many mushrooms and puff-balls in society is that men fotswear morality. In the great bustle of commerce, in the conflict of affairs, in the heated ways of public life, men think that it is not only safe but justifiable and profitable for them to set aside the fundamental qualities of true manhood. That is the reason why, when they are cut down, they never rise again. We honor great men; but it does not take much to make a great man in a community where there are newspapers. Great men have a campaign; great men have one term in Congress; great men have a five years' or a ten years' career in the state legislature; and great men think themselves to be immovably great; but many great men fall, and once falling, never rise again. It does not hurt some things to fall. The elastic ball, when it falls, springs up again; the solid metal, when it falls, may not spring up, but it is solid yet; but find me an apple that though fair of skin, is rotten at the core, and let that once fall, and what becomes of it? However tempting it looks, when the shaking hand once touches it, and it falls, shall it rise again?—[Henry Ward Beecher.

A Worcester boy was engaged in nocturnal cherry stealing a short time ago, and was observed by the owner of the fruit, who, unnoticed by the young robber, placed a large stuffed dog at the foot of the tree and retired to watch the result of the strategy. The boy descending observed the dog, and then the fun commenced; he whistled, coaxed threatened unavailingly, the animal never moving, and finally the youth accepting the inevitable, settled down to passing the night in the tree. After some hours had passed wearily enough to the lad, morning dawned, and the proprietor of the tree coming from the house, asked him how he came to be in the tree, to which the boy answered that he took to it to save himself from the dog, who had chased him quite a distance. It isn't healthy for a smaller boy to say stuffed dog to that youth now.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—The rain of today was needed.

—The steam saw mill on Tanner street was stopped this morning by the flood.

—Mr. Richard Barker, Jr., of Boston, who owns a place here near the Rocks, is seriously ill.

—The probabilities for this section today are favorable to a high sea on the south shore.

—The usual temperance meeting will be held tomorrow at the United Congregational church on Spring street at six o'clock.

—Messrs. Kenney, Morris, Coffin and Van Wagner represent the Herald, Times, World and Sun, respectively, with the yachts.

—The Ocean House was lively last evening, the many yachtmen present adding much to the brilliancy of the occasion.

—Of course nothing could be done today about the yacht race, and a meeting of the owners will be held tonight to decide on a course of action.

—The prize which was to have been sailed for today, is given by the Seawanaka Yacht Club and consists of an elaborate silver wine cooler and fruit dish combined, valued at $550.00.

—The scene at Fort Adams at the concert last evening was animated. A great number of people in carriages were present and the Jamestown took over not far from one hundred and fifty from this city.

—The train from Boston was stopped today near Tiverton station to put off men to turn the water which had flooded the track at that place. No trouble in running trains is anticipated.

—The yacht Wanderer got ashore yesterday opposite the head of Long wharf but after an hour's delay was relieved by the Jamestown. The latter subsequently got into the same fix and was considerably delayed.

—Mr. J. Hamilton Clarke died at his residence in Jamestown last evening. He was formerly of the Pier firm of Clarke and Cottrell, had represented his town in the general assembly for two years and was closely identified with the interests of the community.

—The sewer at the corner of Marlboro and Thames streets burst this morning under the pressure of the heavy rains and flooded Thames street for a hundred feet each way. The flood entered some of the houses in the vicinity and filled the belt pit of the brass foundry so that the works were stopped.

—The cat boat Dolly owned by Mr. Clarence Rathbone, beat the Saunterer, owned by Mr. Hamilton, yesterday ten minutes in the race around Conanicut Island. There was much interest manifested in the result and but few were disappointed as the Dolly was generally considered to be a very good sailor.

—Private Howard who was shot at the fort on Thursday, was quietly buried yesterday afternoon and but few even at the fort knew anything about the disposition of his remains at the time. His friends who live in Providence were not apprised of his death before the burial. Gen. Hunt and his officers all unite in praising the guard for his prompt action.

—The Narragansett Gun Club will meet at their grounds, Rogers Farm, Monday Aug. 10 at noon to shoot for a cup presented by their President James G. Bennett. Strangers and visitors admitted to the grounds on payment at $1.00. There will be no charge for ladies accompanied by gentlemen and should it be a fine day we hope the ladies will turn out in force.

TURNED OVER.—A pair of horses attached to a canopied phaeton containing a gentleman and lady and belonging to Mr. Loring Andrews became frightened by music at the fort yesterday afternoon and attempted to run. In turning about the phaeton became entangled with two or three other carriages and before the horses could be controlled by the gentleman or seized by the bystanders it turned over and the occupants were thrown out. Several gentlemen were near at hand and prevented the certainty of a general catastrophe that would have been caused by a runaway under the circumstances. Neither of the occupants received hurt but the phaeton will have to go to the repair shop.

RESCUED.

Michael Fitzgerald and another young man, both of whom work in the boiler shop, started out for a sail last evening about seven o'clock. The wind was high and their boat was a small one and to make their excursion more risky the boat carried a good deal of canvass and the young men were not experienced sailors. A little way north of Goat Island they attempted to "gibe" and instead of turning around they turned over. Captain Shay of the sail boat Madeline was out with a party of gentlemen and happened to be in the immediate vicinity. He saw the accident occur and bore down to the relief of the capsized party. They were soon reached and while the Madeline hove to Mike and his fellow voyager, who had been clinging to their boat, were hauled in, wet but sound, and a line was made fast to the unfortunate craft after her mast had been pulled out and stowed away in the Madeline. The moist youths were landed at the Old Colony wharf were they were met by their friends with a good deal of laughter. The boat, full of water but floating, was tied to a spile and Captain Shay and his party continued their sail.

THE LIFE AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF CHARLES SUMNER. BY C. EDWARD LESTER.

The publication of this volume, is at an opportune moment when the admirers of the late illustrious statesman, will welcome a faithful record of his great career.

In preparing this work the author has made use of his own personal recollection of Mr. Sumner, during an intimacy of many years, besides the materials that have been brought before the public in various forms. So closely was the career of Sumner, connected with our national history that a perusal of this volume, cannot fail to prove of great interest to all who have watched our national progress and improvement, during his impressive character upon this country, whose speeches, work, and influence, has covered a quarter century of the most important epoch in our country's history. Foremost in every movement that he believed would redound to the ultimate good of the people, he leaves a bright and luminous record that will rank nobly in the history of our nation. Mr. Lester has had this volume long in preparation, with the intention of publishing it, should he survive Mr. Sumner. It has been prepared with excellent judgment, and forms a luminous commentary on his noble career. Its unity of purpose and consistency of principle, are presented in a striking light, showing the concentration of admirable powers and strenuous convictions in a focus of resplendent whiteness unapproached in the history of our modern statesmen. The volume has frequent notices of Sumner's public assodates, and personal friends who are described from the actual observations of the author in a residence at the capital, during the eventful years of the war. Every page shows how ardent an admirer of Mr. Sumner the author was. The book is devoted to a presentation and review of Sumner's life. Beginning with his birth and education, and his travels in Europe, it passes to his professional, and Senatorial career. Such a work must of necessity open some of the most stirring pages in our national history. Hence as today this volume will stand as authority. We are thus able to receive a work that is not a hasty compilation but the result of years, and much of the work received from the life of the great Senator, and now first published. It will be embellished with fine portrait on steel, of Sumner, and several full-page illustrations, representing eventful scenes during his life, and the grateful tribute of the nation at his grave.

It is a large and handsome octavo volume, of six hundred pages, published by the U. S. publishing Co., N. Y., and obtained by subscription only. Mr. C. S. Lilliebridge is the only authorized agent for Newport county.

THE GIFT OF READINESS.—Of all the intellectual gifts bestowed on man, the most intoxicating is readiness—the power of calling all the resources of the mind into simultaneous action at a moment's notice. Nothing strikes the unready as so miraculous as this promptitude in others; nothing impresses him with so dull and envious a sense of contrast in his own person. To want readiness is to be laid on the shelf, to creep where others fly, to fall into permanent discouragement. To be ready is to have the mind's intellectual property put out at 50 or 100 per cent; to be unready at the moment of trial is to be dimly conscious of faculties tied up somewhere in a napkin. What an engine—we are speaking of "the commerce of mankind"—is a memory ready with its stores at the first question, words that come at your call, thoughts that follow in unbroken sequence, reason quick at retort! The thoughts we may feel not above our level; the words we could arrange in as harmonious order; the memory, only give it time, does not fail us; the repartee is all the occasion called for, if only it had not suggested itself too late, thus changing its nature from a triumph into a regret. It is such comparisons, the painful recollection of panic and disaster, the speech that would not be spoken, the reply that dissolved into incoherence, the action that belied our intention, or, it may be, experience in a humbler field, that gives to readiness such a charm and value. The ready man does seem such a clever fellow! The poet's readiness does not avail him for such practical uses, and does not contribute to his fame or success as all in the same degree. It is the result—the thought, the wit, the sense—not the speed of performance, which determines the worth of his efforts. But we delight in an extempore effusion because of the prestige of readiness called into play in busy life; at least this adds to the pleasure. The poet's best verses are the greatest, least imitable wonder about him; but we are apt to be most surprised when he shows his powers under immediate command: and good lines, struck off at a heat, do give us a vivid insight into the vivacity and energy of the poetical temperament, prompt in its action, ready at a call, and gayly willing to display its mechanical facilities. There is a specimen of Dryden's fluency in extempore verse, communicated and authenticated by Malone, which shows that foresight and composite action which a strong imagination seems to possess, uttering what it has prepared, and composing what is to follow, at one and the same time—a habit or faculty observed in Sir Walter Scott by his amanuenses. This double action must belong to all rapid complex expression; but the difficulty is enhanced and the feat magnified in proportion when rhythm and rhyme are added to the other requirements.—[Blackwood.

WATERFALLS IN GERMANY.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing of a trip from Berlin to Schreiverhau says: "The ride from Reibnitz to Warmbspun presents but few attractions, but after leaving this bathing place the road commences a continual ascent through villages embowered in roses, the ruins of Kynast and the bold Schneekopf looming up in the distance before you. The Zachen and Kochel, two mountain streams tumbling pleasantly over the rocks and forming here and there tiny cascades, are the great admiration of the Germans, and one cannot commit a greater crime in their eyes than not to go into ecstasies over their beauties, though they seem very tame to us who have come from Niagara, and indeed they are not even comparable with the charming Llana cascade in Vermont. But the tinkle and murmur, with an occasional heavy splash, was very pleasant to hear on the warm day, and much more refreshing than the green and slimy pree that waters the dusty city of Berlin. It carries something of the idea of the sublime, and very much of the ridiculous, to have, in the fissures of great mountains, artificial waterfalls all over Germany. At the head of each fall the water is collected in small reservoirs. When visitors make their appearance and pay their groschen the gate is raised, and the water flows for a few minutes with quite a respectable dash down the rocks amid the exclamations: 'Grand!' 'Magnificent!' &c. Such an arrangement would be rather clever in a gentleman's garden, but through the natural fissures and deep chasms of the mountains it savors of a reproach to Dame Nature for being too dry to do her duty."

DR. BICKNELL'S SYRUP Cures Bowel or Summer Complaints. Being composed largely of Brandy, Spices and simple astringents, without a particle of Opiate, has proved after a 25 years' trial superior to any other article for Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera-Morbus, Cholera-Infantum, Colic, Cramp, Sick or Sour Stomach, Sea-Sickness, Dyspepsia, &c., and may be implicitly relied upon in the most severe cases, yet so simple and pleasant that it may be given the most delicate infant. It acts upon the system like water on a wilted plant. Prepared only by Edward Sutton of Providence, R. I. Sold by all dealers in Medicines. jy3-3m-n&j

DIED.

BRIGGS.—Suddenly, in this city, 8th inst., at the residence of his son-in-law, Geo. A. Fellows, Hon. Amos Briggs, of Schaghticoke, Rensalaer Co., N. Y., in the 80th year of his age. aug8-2t

CLARKE.—In Jamestown, 7th inst., J. Hamilton Clarke, aged 54 years. The funeral will take place from his late residence, Jamestown, on Monday at 1½ o'clock.

To mothers—for infants and children, to prevent food turning sour on the stomach, use Milk of Magnesia; it cures dysentery and diarrhœa, invigorates the stomach and bowels, and corrects acidity. Physicians recommend and prescribe it. Caswell, Hazard and Co., Agents. jy27-1mo

Protect Your Buildings. Fire and water proof!—One coat of Glines' Slate Roofing Paint is equal to six of any other: it contains no tar will fill up all holes in shingle, tin, felt o iron roofs. Never cracks nor scales off, stops al leaks and is only 80 cents a gallon ready for use, with a liberal discount to the trade. Send for testimonials. N. Y. State Roofing Co, No. 6 Cedar st, N. Y. feb23-n&j

Milk of Magnesia, is something entirely new. It is employed in all cases where Magnesia is beneficial, and being rendered free from the deleterious tendencies of calcined and other magnesias is far preferable, and is very valuable in infancy, as from its agreeable taste and milk-like smoothness, children will take it when they cannot be induced to take anything else. Caswell, Hazard and Co., Agents. jy27-1m

Signals of Distress. When the eyes have become dull and heavy, the nervous system morbidly sensitive, the muscles flaccid, the complexion sallow, the body languid, the mind listless, and the fire and energy which would characterize health have wholly or measurably disappered, the individual exhibiting these symptoms may take it for granted that his stomach is disea[s]ed, his liver disordered, his blood impure or impoverished and his constitutional stamina and vitality impaired. What his case requires is immediate and judicious medical treatment. He need not, however, put himself to the expense of consulting a pyshician. It is as clear as the sun in a cloudless sky that he is dyspeptic, and it is as certain as any demonstrated fact can be, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will cure dyspepsia and all the brood of bodily and mental ills of which it is the parent. Let him commence a course of the remedy at once, and following the directions carefully, continue to take it until every disagreeable symptom shall have disappeared. If it be a case of long standing, the cure will not be sudden and immediate. The great tonic and corrective, potent as it is, does not work miracles; but surely, though gradually, it will restore the sufferer to perfect health. From day to day his eyes will become brighter, his nerves firmer, his muscles more elastic, his complexion fresher and clearer, his spirits brisker. In due time he will be once more in a fit condition to fight the battle of life vigorously and effectively, and will admit that, if dyspepsia is our natural disease, we have in Hostetter's Bitters a national specific equal to the emergency.

Young men, if you have been eating or drinking to excess do not use Seltzer Water, but take Milk of Magnesia, which is much more effective. Indigestion, sick headache, and vomiting food, positively cured by Milk of Magnesia. Caswell, Hazard and Co., Agents. jy27-1mo

At thirty-five the average American discovers that he has an "Infernal Stomach," and goes into the hands of the doctors for the remnant of his life. Prevention is better than cure, but DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS will both cure and prevent dyspepsia, diseases of the skin, liver, kidneys, and bladder, and all disorders arising from an "infernal stomach." aug5-4wd

PIMPLES AND HUMORS ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the VEGETINE is the great remedy as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS, the great western PILE remedy, has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of DR. SILSBEE, an eminent western physician, and has been indorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, poultice and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure. Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker st, New York. jy30-2w

Newport Daily News.

SATURDAY AUGUST 3, 1874.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

A Hostile Camp of Comanches and Cheyennes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.

White Shield, a Cheyenne Chief, who arrived at camp in the Indian country, reports a hostile camp of Comanches and Cheyennes near the border of the Staked Plains. Some eighty lodges of Kiowas are going to join them.

The Raids in Texas.

Large parties of Kiowas and Comanches are raiding in Texas and other places. Big Bow, a Kiowa chief has recently returned with two hundred head of cattle, and a party of Cheyennes returned with seventy horses, and had killed three whites. The Kiowas recently killed a man near Fort Sill agency, where they had just received rations. The Cheyennes are now willing to come in, but if the soldiers are sent for them, they will fight. Many Cheyennes desired peace, but the hostile party are too strong for them. The only solution of the troubles is to dismount every raiding Indian, and hang all the Indian murderers in the presence of their tribe. Large herds of buffalo are near the hostile Indian camps.

FROM NEW YORK.

The Governor's Action on the Charges against the Mayor.

NEW YORK, August 7.

It is stated that the decision of Governor Dix relative to the charges against Mayor Havemeyer was served on the mayor today. The governor orders an official investigation embracing all the charges, to be conducted by the state attorney general before a judge of this county. Governor Dix arrived here last night, bringing his decision with him. He had a long private interview with Comptroller Green today.

Various Matters.

The residence of W. M. Tweed, Forty-second street and Fifth avenue, was sold at auction by the referee, today, for $195,000.

It is reported that the state of New York, which failed to get three millions of new fives awarded to the syndicate, is investing in ten-forties. During yesterday and today a million and a quarter of ten-forties have been quietly bought, it is thought for the state.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Towboat Explosion on the Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 7.

The steam towboat Samuel Roberts blew up today, in Guyandotte (West Virginia) Shoals, on the Ohio river. Dudley Holland, watchman, was killed, Samuel Fitch dangerously scalded, and David Williamson, the pilot, seriously hurt. Capt. Daniel DeWolf Clerk Heatey DeWolf, Mate Charles Anderson, First Engineer Jacob Hunker, Steward J. W. Thompson, Second Cook Geo. Canine were all injured, but not dangerously.

ROAD DUST IN THE FARM YARD.—The Summer season is the proper time to get road dust for various purposes, such as for the privy vault, destroying lice on cattle, for the poultry to dust themselves in, etc. For the privy, that has been sufficiently written up. For cattle, when they begin to rub themselves, or swing their caudal appendages, or lick their backs, one may begin to surmise there is some surface application necessary, and perhaps Nature's remedy is the best. When the cows are dry, take some dust and sprinkle it over them—rub it on where it is not likely to stay. If they have grubs, rub them well with it, and watch the result. Dust, one must remember, is earth freed from moisture, and it must be kept so. Keep in barrels and in a dry place. For poultry, make a bottom of refuse boards nailed on stringers, say four by six feet square, and on the outer edges nail narrow strips four or six inches wide, to keep the dust from being rubbed off. A roof is needed to keep the dust dry. Add dust to it occasionally, and see how readily they will take to it.

PAIN-KILLER

1840. 1874.

Time Tests the Merits of all Things.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the Pain-Killer is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and effective remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and it needs only to be known to be prized, and its reputation as a Medicine of Great Virtue, is fully and permanently established.—It is the great Family Medicine of the age. Taken internally it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhœa, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowel Complaint, Painters' Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat and Coughs. Taken Externally, it cures Bruises, Boils, Felons, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores, and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost Bitten Feet, &c.

Pain is supposed to be the lot of us poor mortals, as inevitable as death, and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore, it is important that remedial agents should be at hand to be used on emergency, when we are made to feel the excruciating agony of pain or the depressing influence of disease. Such a remedial exists in Perry Davis' "Pain-Killer," the fame of which has extended over all the earth. Amid the eternal ices of the Polar regions, or beneath the intolerable and burning suns of the tropics its virtues are known and appreciated. And by it suffering humanity has found relief from many of its ills. The effect of the Pain Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in case of Cough, Cold, Bowel Complaint, Cholera, Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy, in cases of Burns, Bruises, Sores and Sprains, Cuts, Stings of insects, &c., and other causes of suffering has secured for it the most prominent position among the medicines of the day. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. Call for Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain-Killer, and take no other.

Sold by all Druggists and Grocers.

The blazing rays of Summer heat
Affect the eyes while on the street,
And really this is why
So many colored glasses pass you by;

Do your eyes feel tired or strange or weak?
It is the rest, beneath the shade they seek.
"Protect us," then they seem to say
With colored glasses through the day.
"All shades, assorted, can be seen
"Of London smoke, and blue, and green;
"At 26 Washington Square
"The only Optician, you'll find him there."
We note the reply of Moses to Aaron
Of colored glasses in "the fashion to wear 'em"

NEWPORT, Aug. 4th, 1874.

To all Whom it may Concern.

DURING the thunderstorm which occurred in this place last Saturday evening, I firmly believe my family had a very narrow escape from instant death. A thunderbolt which will long be remembered by our people, for its alarming power and violence, descended upon my house on Ayrault street. Fully recognizing that higher power which holds our destinies in his keeping, and wishing to do even justice to all, I freely admit that the favorite galvanized lightning rod, which Mr. J. F. Holmes, of Providence, R. I., erected upon my house two years ago, has proved to be worth to me, its weight in gold, as it conducted this terrible bolt to the earth, and has more than confirmed my previous belief in the utility of a good lightning rod, for the protection of life and property.
